ACEC New Jersey
American Council of Engineering Companies

Distinguished Service Award
Nomination Form

The Distinguished Service award is to honor those who throughout their career have elevated the standards of the engineering profession and have made positive contributions to society through their civic involvement. The recipients of this award have demonstrated a sustained commitment to the community and public leadership.

Nominees have made a significant contribution to our state and to the engineering profession, bringing recognition to the profession through public office and/or civic leadership. In addition, these individuals have had a distinctive participation in ACECNJ and other professional and technical activities and societies. Recipients of the distinguished service award are seen as pillars of the engineering community, and are recognized for their professional contributions.
